

VINCENT VAN GOGH

The Ueno Royal Museum
October 11 2019 -January 13 2020

Vincent van Gogh Exhibition will be held soon!

Vincent van Gogh (1853-1890), a painter who is loved around the world with bright colors and strong brushstrokes. Do you know that most of his masterpieces were painted in just a few years of his later years?

In this exhibition, we will introduce Gogh to become one of the leading Impressionist painters through various encounters such as the Hague, the roots of Gogh's paintings, and the Impressionists, who had a great influence on him.

The Hague, the Impressionists, and the Gogh you don't know are here.

In Paris, Van Gogh worked together with young painters who would later be called Post-Impressionists such as Gauguin and Georges Seurat in addition to Pissarro and Edgar Degas and absorbed their style while deepening exchanges with them through exhibitions. In particular, the bright colors that contrasted primary colors and the way of painting that clearly left brushstrokes determined Van Gogh's direction after that.

Self-Portrait with Pipe and Straw Hat
1887

Van Gogh Museum

This work is a 34-year-old self-portrait of Van Gogh, wearing light blue work clothes with a straw hat and a pipe. It was revealed that it was produced in Paris between September and October 1887. It is drawn only in the limited colors of yellow, orange, brown, pink, blue-green, and greyish green. I can say that.
